Understanding Glaucoma

Glaucoma usually begins when pressure builds up in the eye. The pressure can damage the optic nerve, which sends messages to the brain so you can see. When the optic nerve is damaged, vision loss occurs making glaucoma a potentially blinding disease.

Development of Glaucoma

Healthy Eye

Flow of aqueous humour

Drainage canal

Glaucoma

Drainage canal blocked; build-up of fluid

Glaucoma

Increased pressure damages blood vessels and optic nerve

Two Types of Glaucoma

Open-angle glaucoma worsens slowly. It has no symptoms except for gradual vision loss and it often affects both eyes.

Closed-angle glaucoma results in sudden, intense eye pain and usually only affects one eye at a time.

Detecting and treating glaucoma early is key to saving your sight, and with the best care and treatment in Memphis and the mid-South, Eye Specialty Group is dedicated to providing just that. Our team of doctors will work with you every step of the way tailoring a unique treatment plan for your eyes.
